

Project Proposal: Citrus Digital Journal

This is a journaling application which encrypts user journal entries upon completion using AES. This renders journal entries illegible to the human eye. Entries can be retrieved and decrypted given a password from the user. This allows users to maintain a private journal for purposes ranging from mental health to work related notes. Each entry is associated with a date for the sake of tracking chronology.